

Frequently Asked Questions

Q: What is the difference between a Certified course and an Accredited course?

A: Both accredited and non-accredited courses are beneficial for growing your skill set and professional resume. A certified course means simply that you are issued with a certificate, which can be from private or third party suppliers. A certified course, although good for developing your skill set, does not necessarily allow you to work legally in the field of study or defined scope of practice.

An accredited course issues you with a Nationally Recognised Qualification from the Australian Government (see below), ensuring you are employable, and can work safely and/or legally in your field of study.

Q: What does 'Nationally Recognised Qualification' mean?

A: An accredited, nationality recognised qualification is a course that is recognised and taught to the same standard all over Australia. Nationally recognised courses are VET Accredited by the Australian Skills Quality Authority (ASQA), and are compliant with the standards of the Australian Quality Framework (AQF). This provides employers with the guarantee that the qualification listed on your resume is quality assured and meets the training package requirements as listed on training register www.training.gov.au. An accredited qualification will be valuable, and recognised nationally anywhere within Australia.

Q: How can I make sure a course is Accredited?

A: There are 3 things you can do to help you quickly determine if a course is accredited.

- Look for the RTO code of the training provider (on their site or materials)
- Search the course code on training.gov.au (an accredited course will have all available information here)
- Simply look for the 'Nationally Recognised Training' Logo on the course/site

Q: I have studied similar courses elsewhere, can I use this to count towards completing a course through the Australian Mind Body Institute?

A: The Australian Mind Body Institute will happily assess each student's request for credit transfer at an individual level, requiring a one on one with one of the training operations managers to assess Recognised Prior Learning (RPL) eligibility.

Q: How long do I have to complete the course?

A: You will find the allotted time for the course in the course overview page or information pack. Most courses allow 12 months for completion, some short courses may have a 6 month timeframe, however extensions can be granted if needed, simply contact your trainer or the AMBI email and we will help you.

Q: Can I bundle courses together for a discounted price?

A: Absolutely. When you download the course information pack you will find course cost and any related course bundles for a discounted price. If the bundle you are after is a bit different or not listed, simply contact us and we will work to discount the bundle you are after.
